Graziella,
page 21

I am often asked if it's difficult to commission designs for summer, as for many people, knitting is synonymous with the colder months of winter. On the contrary, I always say. Commissioning for the summer months is just as much fun as it's the one time designs aren't all about keeping warm, but instead allow for different considerations and the resulting collection in this issue demonstrates this perfectly. With an overall feel that is both feminine and relaxed with delicate details; from the vibrant pink of the Cropped cable cardigan (page 24) to the soft cream and gold of the Diamond lace tee (page 19), I trust you'll find something to get you reaching for your needles.

To tweet or not to tweet: that is the question. But for those of you who are less than confident on the social media front and feel it's 140 characters too far, read Sian Hamilton's final instalment in her three-part series on social media, A guide to Twitter (page 43), and see why your knitting deserves it.

One of my favourite pastimes is observing the twists and turns in the paths of other people's creativity: finding out what the original spark was that ignited the inspiration behind a certain project. For me the starting point is invariably a colour (followed, more often than not, by a mistake that determines a change of plan for whatever project I'm working on!). So, when I came across ceramicist Annette Bugansky's stunning pottery collection, emulating a myriad of knit stitches all in clay, I was intrigued to know what the starting point was for this collection of ceramics. But without spoiling the story, read Diana Woolf's feature, Textural illusions (page 46), and discover Annette's story for yourself.

Continuing with the summer vibe, don't miss NEXT MONTH'S issue (on sale 4 June) where colour is king! Packed with gorgeous designs in wonderfully vibrant shades, it's just one more reason to love your summer issues of Knitting!

SUMMER EXHIBITIONS

There are a few good exhibitions for knitwear and fashion lovers this summer. It looks like we're going to be busy! First up is RIVIERA STYLE Resort and Swimwear since 1900 at the Fashion and Textile Museum, London, from now until 29 August. From the British seaside to the Côte d'Azur, Riviera Style celebrates fashion at its most fun, and, having seen a sneak peek, we can confirm it features some fab knitted swimwear!

Don't miss the Fashion on the Ration: 1940s Street Style exhibition at the Imperial War Museum, London, now – 31 August, for some functional fashion. This is a show about creativity, innovation, coping in a time of adversity and how this period still influences fashion today. You know there will be some wonderful wartime knitwear, too.

Hatched, Matched, Patched & Dispatched at the American Museum, Bath, is on from now until November. This exhibition brings together meaningful textiles that commemorate family milestones from christening robes to bridal gowns from the 18th and 19th century.

This month: Louise Martin of Woolfish Knitting Retreats in the Scottish borders

T: 07861 389224

E: louise@woolfish.co.uk

W: www.woolfish.co.uk

I am the eldest of three girls and ever since I can remember I have been doing some sort of craft. We lived next door to my granny and it was from her that I first learned to knit, crochet, bobbin knit, make rugs and stitch many kinds of embroidery. Over the years I have taught embroidery, specialising in crewelwork. I loved the look of wool as opposed to silks.

About 10 years ago I opened the Woolfish shop in St Abbs, with the idea of mainly selling needlework, with a bit of wool. Well, the wool took over and I, with the help of my daughter Trudi, spent a number of years ensconced in wool. During this time, with the help of many knitting friends, we set up the St Abbs Wool Festival, which is still running twice a year.

Trudi then met the lovely Nathan and moved on to pastures new, so I had to see which direction I wanted to go in. I had done the odd knitting retreat and the feedback I received was brilliant. I made the decision to close the shop because I couldn't manage that by myself, along with my other work commitments. Out of this little bit of a sad time came Woolfish Knitting Retreats. I still sell a little bit of wool, mainly New Lanark wool and the odd bit of alpaca and other bits that take my fancy, but use the shop mainly as a base for the knitting retreats.

The feedback has been amazing. It's funny, when I look at the lovely comments that people have written I still wonder who they are talking about because I am in my element and doing something I love. Before every knitting retreat I get nervous, whether it is with one person or 10 people, but I always enjoy them and I have formed so many lovely friendships.

Here are some snippets of what customers have said about the knitting retreats:

"Have had the most wonderful time... It was relaxing, with amazing food and company, and I've learnt so many new things, including Louise's continental knitting methods!" Sue

"Brilliant stay. Lovely welcome. Learned new skills to make my life easier. This was just what I needed to recharge my batteries and start again. I've eaten too much food, laughed a lot, and relaxed even more." Julie

"I'm a bit speechless! It was wonderful, relaxing, with much laughter and giggles. Glorious food and Louise's cooking is all you need to get a rested soul. Can't wait until next year!" Karin

Yarn review

Jeanette Sloan jumps straight into the new season summer yarns

1. Yeoman Panama DK

If you're looking for a durable, no-nonsense summer yarn you'll love Yeoman Panama DK. It's a plied and twisted blend of 50% acrylic and 50% cotton that knits to a DK weight, producing a firm, cool fabric with crisply defined stitches. This yarn has a wonderful cord-like feel to it and a blend of fibres that gives it a gently marled appearance with flecks of lustrous acrylic brightening up the matt cotton. This great value yarn, which would also be ideal for crochet, is available in a choice of 15 shades. There are classic neutrals like Fudge, Linen and Cream, and for fans of blue hues there is Turquoise, Navy and Denim. It's the fantastic Fiesta, Lime and Peony, shown here, that add a welcome pop of bright, summery colour. Machine washable at 40°C. May also be hand washed.

Composition: 50% acrylic, 50% cotton
Weight: 100g
Length: 200m
Rec needle size: 4mm
RRP: £2.95
Contact: Yeoman Yarns
T: 01162 404464
E: sales@yeomanyarns.co.uk
W: www.yeoman-yarns.co.uk

2. Rico Design Fashion Colour Pop

Rico Design Fashion Colour Pop is a gently twisted DK weight yarn made from 100% cotton. It's multistranded, with each strand dyed a number of different colours, which creates a rich riot of colour when twisted together. This colour effect translates into a lively, variegated impression when knitted up and, along with its soft, dry handle, makes this a perfect summer yarn. There is a choice of six exciting shades, including shade 004 Purple Mix, shown here (which reminded me of Liquorice Allsorts), but with so much going on in terms of colour, this yarn is probably best suited to simply shaped garments in plain stitches. Patterns for easy to wear ladies' cardigans, vests and quick-to-knit accessories can be found in a collection of loose leaflets. Machine washable at 30°C on a gentle setting, dry flat. May also be dry cleaned with care.

Composition: 100% cotton,
Weight: 50g
Length: 110m
Rec needle size: 3.5mm
RRP: £3.69

W: www.loveknitting.com or www.rico-design.com

3. Bergère de France Reflet

Bergère de France Reflet is a beautiful combination of matt and shine that blends 61% organic cotton with 39% polyester. Fine filaments of polyester are twisted around the cotton base colour, giving the yarn a slightly crimped texture and a bright fleck, which translates into a tweedy mix of colour when knitted up. It has a soft handle and slightly irregular texture that, together with the tweed effect, will swallow small stitch details, so I wouldn't recommend using it for the likes of moss stitch. There is a palette of eight shades to choose from, including shade 97 Canari, shown here. Fans of simple shaped knits will find patterns for this yarn – as well as Bergère's other summer yarns – in the Spring/Summer 2015 Magazine no. 178. Machine washable at 30°C on a wool setting, dry flat. May also be dry cleaned with care.

Composition: 61% organic cotton, 39% polyester
Weight: 100g
Length: 300m
Rec needle size: 3mm
RRP: £7.50
Contact: Bergère de France
E: hello@bergeredefrance.co.uk
W: www.bergeredefrance.co.uk

4. Ella Rae Phoenix DK

Ella Rae Phoenix DK is a gently twisted yarn spun from 100% combed mercerised cotton. Although some mercerised cottons look very shiny and feel almost hard, in this case the handle is soft and the yarn has a very understated sheen. It is a beautifully rounded yarn that is smooth to knit with, producing a cool, springy fabric with excellent stitch definition. This makes it perfect for all types of stitches, from garter and moss stitch to lace, cables, and twisted stitches. There is a large and varied colour palette of 24 shades available, which has something for everyone; soft neutrals such as shade 1024, shown here, as well as classic white, cream, grey and black, plus bold brights like pillar box red, and saffron orange. If you like small projects featuring stripes and colourwork there are patterns for scarves and hats available in leaflet form. Machine washable at 40°C on a wool setting. May also be dry cleaned.

Composition: 100% combed mercerised cotton
Weight: 100g
Length: 250m
Rec needle size: 3.75-4mm
RRP: £6.99
Contact: Intercontinental Yarns
T: 01535 664222
W: www.intercontinentalyarns.co.uk

5. Araucania Nuble

Araucania Nuble is a hand-painted, single ply blend of 75% extra fine Merino wool and 25% silk. If you're a fan of 4 ply knitting, then you'll find this a treat to work with as it slips beautifully through the fingers and knits to produce a wonderfully soft and lightweight fabric with excellent stitch definition. This yarn is hand dyed in Peru, which means that it's not dyed in standard dye lots so if you're happy to leave the final colour effect to the knitting gods, simply cast on and knit away. If not, work with two hanks at a time, knitting 2-4 rows from each hank alternately to avoid pooling. There is a choice of 12 shades available, including shade 21 Cornucopia, shown here (the swatch was continually knitted from one hank), and there are a number of garment and accessory patterns available as single leaflets. Hand wash and dry flat. May also be dry cleaned with care.

Composition: 75% extra fine Merino wool, 25% silk
Weight: 50g
Length: 250m
Rec needle size: 3.5mm
RRP: £8.95
Contact: Designer Yarns Ltd
T: 01535 664222
E: enquiries@designeryarns.uk.com
W: www.designeryarns.uk.com

6. Louisa Harding Anise

Louisa Harding Anise is a chunky blend of 45% cotton, 45% polyacrylic and 10% nylon. At around 5mm wide it has a railroad construction but is soft enough to curl inwards, making it feel much more rounded than flat when you're working with it. It knits up quickly with a standard tension of 14 sts and 20 rows, producing a lightweight fabric with a soft, spongy texture and dry handle. There are 10 richly coloured shades to choose from, including the pink/red/purple of 510 Cardamom and the green/blue/purple mix of 507 Scallion, shown here. Design support can be found in the Anise pattern book, which features over 10 garments and accessories designed with a relaxed feel and beautifully styled with a hippy vibe. Hand wash, dry flat, may also be dry cleaned with care but do not tumble dry.

Composition: 45% cotton, 45% polyacrylic, 10% nylon
Weight: 50g
Length: 70m
Rec needle size: 6mm
RRP: £4.95

7. Hayfield Baby Sparkle DK

Hayfield Baby Sparkle DK is a smooth, multistranded blend of 97% acrylic and 3% polyester. It has a gently twisted construction with a fine filament of metallic polyester twisted along its length, which doesn't affect the soft handle of the yarn but does add a touch of sophisticated 'bling' to your baby knits. As well as offering great value for money, this yarn is beautifully soft to work with and extremely versatile, knitting to a standard DK tension. With a choice of six pretty shades, including the brilliantly named I Lilac Your Style, Pretty Flamingo and Fancy Pansy, shown here, it's definitely aimed at little girls. Pattern support can be found in a selection of single leaflets featuring cardigans and jackets to fit ages 0-6 months to 6-7 years but, of course, with a standard tension of 22 sts and 30 rows it can be used to update your favourite DK pattern, whatever your age. Machine washable at 40°C on a wool setting, dry flat but do not iron. May also be dry cleaned with care.

Composition: 97% acrylic, 3% polyester
Weight: 100g
Length: 260m
Rec needle size: 4mm

8. Rico Design Essentials Cotton Glitz

Rico Design Essentials Cotton Glitz is a multistranded yarn with a fine multicoloured filament twisted around a solid-coloured base, creating a lustrous DK weight yarn with a subtle tweedy appearance. It knits smoothly producing a cool, silky fabric with good drape and well-defined stitches. Despite the name, the 'glitz' is achieved without using a metallic thread, which means the effect is very understated and the handle is soft. Although there are just five shades available, they are bound to have broad appeal as they consist of classic White (001), Anthracite grey (004) and Black (005), plus two fashion shades: Raspberry (003) and the wonderfully rich, gold tones of Curry (002), shown here. Because this yarn is an extension of Rico Essentials Cotton DK, it knits to the same tension so there's no shortage of pattern support, whether you choose to work exclusively with Glitz or combine the two in the same project. Machine washable at 30°C on a gentle setting, dry flat. May also be dry cleaned.

Composition: 78% cotton, 19% viscose 3% polyester
Weight: 50g
Length: 130m
Rec needle size: 3-4mm
RRP: £3.99

PATTERN PERFECTION

Head-to-toe pattern is cropping up on catwalks across the globe.

By Katie Holloway

DRESSCAMP $/$15, ALENA AKHMADULLINA $/$15, MARC CAIN $/$15

Stand out this summer with matching patterns worn throughout your outfit. From the delicate pastel pattern of the top, cardigan and skirt combination by Marc Cain (who also brings sheer into his knitwear), to the bold cartoon-print peplum top and skirt by Dresscamp, designers are not shying away from matching prints. Colourful knits are dolled up by Alena Akhmadullina, by pairing with a tonally matching organza skirt. House of Holland (over page), of course, goes all out, with one print continued throughout an outfit, in three different, but matching, colourways. Now is the time to wear pattern with pattern!

KIY (Knit it Yourself)

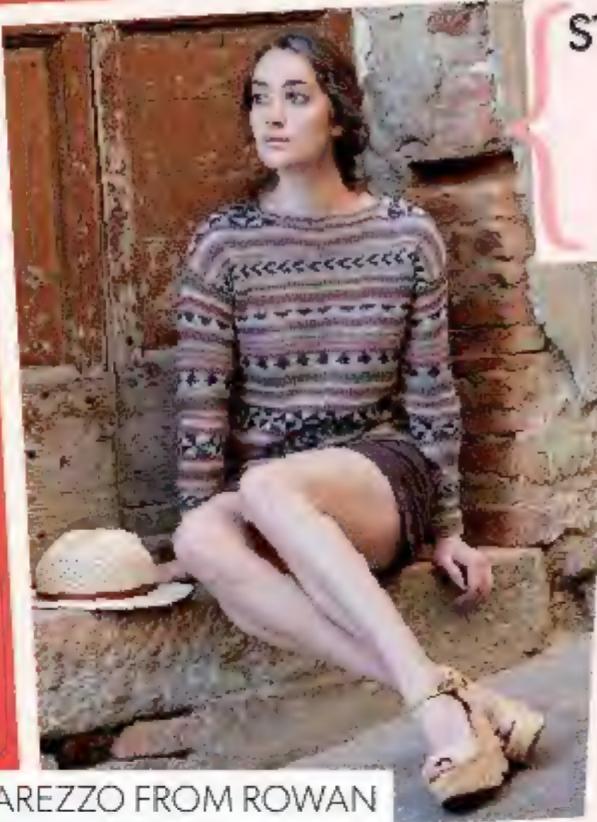

Play with pattern when you're knitting for spring and summer. Chevron shapes are on trend, so Debbie Bliss' Striped chevron top is a great, vibrant option. A tunic that can be worn over leggings or with skinny jeans is a summer staple, and this Hayfield top is perfect, with its zingy stripes. If you're up for a challenge, Rowan's Fairisle Arezzo jumper mixes together all the patterns you can think of, and it was designed by the king of colour himself: Kaffe Fassett. Also, those of you who are long-time knitters, dig through your old pattern books from the '80s; designers like Sandy Black and Patricia Roberts brought out patterns that are right on trend again now.

If you would rather let the yarn do the work, try something variegated. Options range from the slowly fading Nuble yarn by Araucania, which comes in sumptuous colours, to the rapidly colour-changing Eco Baby Prints by Debbie Bliss, which comes in lovely soft colours. Self-patterning sock yarns are also a great option. Check out Regia for a good selection.

Why not try a new technique to bring patterns into your knitwear? Entrelac is a fun way to explore criss-cross designs that can make colours really pop. The book Entrelac 2 has lots of new techniques to learn. Brioche stitching, too, creates beautiful designs, and Nancy Marchant's latest book Knitting Fresh Brioche shows you a whole new way of working with the technique.

On course

Tackle getting patterns into your knitting with the Fathoming Fairisle workshop at Fyberknitcs in Swansea. They're running the workshop on 19 September, and you will receive a comprehensive introduction to Fairisle knitting on straight needles and in the round. They will also show you how to steek – if you're brave enough! The class costs £35.

www.fyberknitcs.co.uk, 07933 750344

What to wear with

This trend really is all about wearing pattern with pattern. Be brave and wear a Fairisle knit over some printed trousers; these floral trousers are muted enough to not be too daunting. If you can't quite face that, teaming colourful knits with a patterned scarf or bag (or both!) is the way to go. Pick bright colours and large, bold designs.

A guide to Twitter

You've heard the term 'tweeting' but have you tried it? In the last of her three-part series, Sian Hamilton takes a look at Twitter and how to be interesting in 140 characters

With the social media market moving at an increasingly fast pace, what you knew about sites like Twitter a year ago may not resemble what the site can do today. So here we delve into what Twitter is and how you can use it to boost your business.

So what's the deal with 'tweeting' anyway? Well, on average 500 million tweets are sent every day around the world, with 288 million active users. A surprising 77% of accounts are outside the USA and 80% of tweeters are using mobile apps (about.twitter.com). So Twitter is a fixture in the social media game and with its ability to link with Facebook, Instagram and others it's one you should be investing time in to get the most out of your social media interaction, especially for your business; after all it's free!

What is Twitter?

Twitter is an online social networking service that enables users to send and read short messages called 'tweets'. Tweets can be 'retweeted' by other users and in more recent years the site has added the option of embedding images and short videos in the tweet. When users click to follow you, all your tweets will show up on their home timeline, and if you follow them you see theirs. Simply put, it's like a long list of short sentences by anyone you decide to follow. All tweets can be viewed publicly by users unless you change the privacy setting on your account, which means that even unregistered users can see any public post.

Set up an account

Twitter has apps for most smartphones, tablets and computers (with internet access); it also has another app called TweetDeck for the more experienced Twitter user (but we'll stick to the basics here!). The first thing you'll need to do is create an account. You'll need the usual: name, email and a password. The set up is pretty simple and you'll be ready to tweet in minutes. Something you'll need to think about is your username, this is the name that your followers use when they reply to your tweets, mention you in theirs or directly message you. It's the name you always see online that has an @ sign before the word, for example @KnittingMag. If you are not sure what to use don't panic as the username can be changed at any time. You can add a profile picture (perhaps your logo, we use current issue covers) and a header image (the long one along the top). You can even customise your colour scheme.

Start to follow!

After setting up the account, you'll need to follow others to build your home timeline. This is where all the tweets will show up. Most companies and major brands, as well as individuals, have Twitter feeds so you'll have a vast choice of users to follow. The quickest way to find friends or brands you want to follow is to use the search box, which is at the top of the screen on all devices.

Tweet

So, when your account is ready and you've found a few people to follow, it's time to join in the conversation! A tweet can contain a photo, video or links but is also limited to 140 characters of text. To tweet from a computer, you'll see a bar at the top of the home screen that says 'what's happening?' just click on that and away you go. On the app version, you'll need to tap on the top right of the screen where you can see a box with a quill in it that brings up the screen for you to write the post on. When you are ready to publish it you simply click 'Tweet'.

Hashtags

Like Instagram, Twitter uses hashtags to direct searched-for content. A word with the # (hashtag) in front of it automatically gets listed when anyone searches the term that you have hashtagged. For example, if you write a tweet that says 'Bought some new #laceyarn today, excited to use it', then anyone then searching the term 'laceyarn' will find your tweet. Users can also click on the hashtagged word to see all the other tweets that have been tagged with that word. Don't overuse hashtags as it's considered spamming! So keep the tags to one or two per post and make them relevant to the tweet.

Replies, retweeting and favourites!

When you are on your home timeline (the first screen that comes up when logged in) you'll see three grey symbols under any tweet: these are reply, retweet and favourite. Reply is the arrow (one on the left), you can reply to a tweet (comment on the post) and it gets posted below the original tweet. Retweet (middle symbol, two arrows going around in a square) is used to share a tweet that another user has posted. You can add text of your own before sharing it, which is a nice way of saying why you are sharing something. Favourite (star on the right), is pretty straightforward and lets the user whose tweet it is know you like it!

Conclusion

It's easy to get swamped by tweets if you follow everything you see, so be savvy with who you select to follow. Some people tweet constantly so the timeline feeds move at a brisk pace and you can feel like it's all turning into nonsense very quickly. Make your tweets engaging; if you want to sell or promote your business you need to make your tweets relevant and interesting so that others will retweet and favourite it. Link Twitter with Facebook and Instagram, to make your time posting things as efficient as possible and finally make your tweets fun so that you enjoy it and your followers do too! ●

The Crafter: words from the craft world

The thing about knitters is that they also seem to be interested in all sorts of other things – unashamedly curious and generally rather nice, too. Knowing what a good idea it was to try knitting, they are now game to try out an interest in all sorts of other exciting things; history, felting, travel and (rumour has it) even crochet.

I had great fun organising the first 'Rowan Day Out' a few weeks back. We took a trip to The Clothworkers' Centre, the V&A museum's archive, conservation and study centre for textiles and fashion, in Kensington. It's always good to go with a group of interested and curious knitters – or just other people like me. There were Rowan's magazine readers from the US and Ireland, from Newcastle and North London. Among them a paper conservator, Designer Sarah Hatton, Knitting Magazine's Deputy Editor Katy Evans and a lady whose grandmother had been a milliner for the Queen Mother. We didn't see any of the Queen Mother's hats but we did see a fabulously bejewelled Norman Hartnell dress that had been worn by her daughter, the present Queen. Coming away, I was full of ideas for working, not just with knitting, but also beading, embroidery, weaving and the need to try something new. I recommend visiting!

The Spring Knitting and Stitching Show at Olympia is not quite as large as the autumn show, but just as exhausting. Kerry Lord of Toft was encouraging people to join her interactive Crochet Jungle. For every monkey pattern sold, £1 of each goes to Noah's Ark Hospice and Birmingham Children's Hospital. I met Louise Walker of Sincerely Louise, who knits dead animals. Louise's book Faux Taxidermy Knits has patterns for a lovely fox stole, as well as fab stuffed animal heads. I also met Bessie Bidder, who makes her animals out of felt in sunny Frome. I'm not a great fan of immortalising pets, but everyone can use a tea cosy and I have to admit that this one really looks like her cat (it's still alive, too).

The Woollen Woods project is an enchanting outdoor art installation made from hundreds of woodland-themed woollen artworks, in support of The Campaign for Wool. Featuring everything from felted flowers to knitted slugs, this year the Woollen Woods goes nationwide at sites across Britain, ranging from the Isle of Arran to Devon, for Voluntary Arts Week 15-24 May. With a 'Woollen Woods in Bloom' theme, it will help you get into the mood for spring.

Textural Illusions

Diana Woolf talks to award-winning textile ceramicist Annette Bugansky about combining two very different mediums

Annette Bugansky's latest creation is her yarn ball yarn bowl. Commissioned by the independent shop Knit with Attitude, it's a ceramic bowl designed to hold a ball of yarn complete with a matching lid with a hole to pull the wool through as you knit. But what makes this so intriguing is the fact that the surface pattern of the bowl echoes the pattern of the yarn ball inside, with individual strands of soft wool seemingly coiled into a hard ceramic ball. And this contrast between the soft and hard, ceramic and textile is what Annette Bugansky's extraordinary, award-winning ceramics are all about.

In spite of her highly successful career as a ceramist, Bugansky started off her professional life in the textile industry. She comes from a long line of tailors, dressmakers and milliners and it seemed inevitable that she would follow the family tradition; learning the tools of the trade at a very early age. "I have always sewed and I used to sit on my father's tailor's table doing my running stitch from about the age of three," she tells me. She picked up a huge amount from both her master tailor father and her mother (who she says "was crazy about knitting") and then went on to study fashion design at the London College of Fashion, adding design to her already impressive technical skills. After graduating, she worked for Jean Muir before setting up her own business making bespoke wedding dresses and eventually ended up at the BBC. Here she became the Head Tailor in charge of both menswear and womenswear and her portfolio included costumes for the Royal Ballet and English National Opera. A glittering career as a costume designer seemed assured, but instead Bugansky, who is clearly not someone to rest on her laurels, decided she needed a change and headed off to Central St Martins to do an arts foundation course. "When my children were born I wanted some more creativity in my life and wanted to look at other areas of design and craft," she explains.

Bugansky started off in the textile department at St Martins, but she soon came across ceramics and says, "this changed everything for me." She had immediately fallen in love with clay, enjoying its responsiveness and malleability. "It was just lovely as a material. It gave me so many surprises as you could bend it, mark it and create different patterns and textures with it," she enthuses. Her love affair with clay translated into a ceramics degree at St Martins, followed by an MA, and altogether she spent six years studying ceramics at the college. "I am very technically driven and love to know how things are made so once I started that was it really," she says. It was towards the end of her time at the college that she started experimenting with textiles in her work, with the light bulb moment coming when one of her tutors suggested she combined her two strands of expertise – ceramics and textiles.

Although she had spent six years studying ceramics, Bugansky had never given up on ▶

"I wanted the real thing – I wanted it to look like a fabric and a texture so I spent a lot of time experimenting with positives and negatives."

textiles and was still very much in the textile zone, making her bespoke wedding dresses and continually knitting for herself. The idea of combining her two interests seemed obvious and so she began to play with ways of capturing the textures and patterns of fabrics in her ceramics. She tried impressing textiles into clay but these were unsuccessful as they resulted in a negative version of the pattern. "I wanted the real thing – I wanted it to look like a fabric and a texture so I spent a lot of time experimenting with positives and negatives," she explains. Eventually she perfected the technique she now uses, working out how to create ceramics that exactly replicate the pattern of textiles. "My greatest inspiration came from texture and textiles and how porcelain has the wonderful ability to capture the tiniest of detail," she tells me.

Ten years on and Bugansky has now made a name for herself, thanks to her skill in reproducing her handmade textiles in slip-cast porcelain. She has created a beguiling range of textured ceramic tableware, vases and giftware and in 2013 won the Best New Product in the home category at Pulse London. And what makes her ceramics particularly eye-catching is their surprising combination of soft textile and hard ceramics: "they are not what you expect and they play with the senses; I really like that," she laughs.

The starting point for each is its basic form. These are fairly minimalist as her work is all about the surface decoration and she is careful not to detract from this by colourful glazes or complex shapes. The forms are carved out of plaster and then 'dressed' by Bugansky in textiles she has made specifically for that particular shape. This is the most laborious part of her making process but clearly the part she enjoys best. "I love making everything, but doing the textiles is the most creative part and that's the bit I enjoy the most," she says. Many of the textiles are knitted, but Bugansky also works with other techniques including crochet and embroidery. "Embroidery is more complicated than knitting as you can do knitting in the round, but with embroidery you have to have seams and so you end up with three elements to juggle – the ground fabric, the stitches and the seams."

Bugansky makes lots of different fabric samples, working out on a grid with a series of dots and dashes how many stitches and rows will make up each piece of fabric so it exactly fits the form. "All the pieces are mathematically worked out as the challenge is to make the fabric fit perfectly – it's a bit like putting on a jumper." Simple forms are covered in one piece of fabric, but more complex forms might need several panels of fabric and this is where her dressmaking skills come into play. Bugansky uses pattern-cutting techniques to cut and fit the fabrics around her basic plaster form, treating it like a dressmaker treats a human body.

Once the form is 'dressed' to her satisfaction, Bugansky then uses it to create a mould. She pours a layer of Plaster of Paris over it, and when this is dry extracts the original form, leaving a mould, which perfectly replicates the surface of the textile covering the original form. She then pours liquid porcelain slip into it, leaving it there just the amount of time needed to form a thin shell round the edge of the mould, before pouring away the excess liquid. The ceramic shell is then dried and finally extracted from the mould and the result is a pot with every stitch and fibre of the original textile seemingly miraculously replicated on its surface.

The final stage in the process is the fettling, when Bugansky carefully cleans the surfaces of the pots, hand carving stitches over seam lines unusable. There is also the issue of diluting her brand and Bugansky is very conscious of the importance of producing work in only very small batches. She has been approached by large homeware companies to produce larger batches, but after research into manufacturing processes has realised that large-scale production is impossible given her insistence on quality and hand-finishing. "Factories won't do the finishing and won't re-carve the stitches – they're not set up for this. I had some work done in China and I was so disappointed by the finish and the material that I was completely put off by the whole idea," she says.

So given that she refuses to compromise quality for profitable quantity, what is the way forward for Bugansky? "I have lots of new shapes planned for 2015 – plates and platters," she tells me, and she is also keen to develop her lighting. This is a range of porcelain pendant shades each worked with Bugansky's trademark textile surfaces, which when lit create a lovely, warm atmosphere. Alongside these new products Bugansky wants to work on more collaborative projects with other designers and makers. The yarn ball yarn bowl is the latest example of this type of collaborative work, and others include making moulds for ceramist Aisha Al Saif and industrial designer Charlotte Kingsnorth. "The work is quite exciting as it's unusual and really challenging and that's what I like," says Bugansky, an artist who seems to relish being gently pushed out of to hide any unsightly joins and working over any blemishes that might have appeared during the casting. The pot is then fired and glazed. She only glazes the insides of each pot, preferring to leave the outside plain. "The glaze doesn't work on the outside as it fills up the depth of the texture and I like the contrast between the matt outside and the gloss inside," she explains. The pot is then fired one more time, given a last polish and then is finally ready to go. The whole process is a real labour of love: "the design, development and mould making process can take up to two to three months and then the porcelain pouring stage can take up to another week and a half," she says.

You might be forgiven for thinking that once she has designed and made the mould, Bugansky has done all the hard work and can just continue churning out the same design ad infinitum. However, unfortunately the porcelain slip eats into the plaster mould and she can only use the same mould 20–30 times before the pattern becomes blurred and the mould her creative comfort zone.

Along with these new projects Bugansky needs to leave time for her teaching. She is passionate about the need to pass on craft skills to a new generation and bemoans the fact that children no longer automatically learn how to do simple sewing at home (although, unsurprisingly, her three children have all been taught to make their own clothes). She is equally disappointed about the way crafts are excluded from the school curriculum saying, "If the less academic children had this type of lesson they would probably flourish." Working to redress the balance, she currently teaches both ceramics and soft furnishing and fashion design and clearly gets huge satisfaction from working with her pupils. "I love to see people's reactions when they see their achievements and I love the way they share and work together," she enthuses. With such a generous and talented teacher, it seems clear that her lucky pupils will go far, as will Bugansky herself.

TIPS

It is recommended that this garment is dry cleaned or hand washed at 30 degrees.

PATTERN NOTES

Yarn is held double throughout.

Beads are threaded onto 1 strand of yarn before starting to work and are placed only on butterfly loops as described in the pattern.

The garment is worked in three sizes Size 1:
XS/S/M, Size 2: L/XL and Size 3: 2XL/3XL.

However the neckband uses different sized needles for each 'sub size' to ensure a better fit. For example if you are making Size 1 and you want a closer fitting neckline then work the needle size given for XS (3.75mm), for a slightly looser fit then work the needle size for size given for S/M (4mm).

BUTTERFLY

Insert RH needle through rightmost hole in patt rep below, yarn round needle, draw yarn loosely through hole to front of work.
Place this loop on LH needle. Rep this procedure for rem 5 holes of patt rep from R to L, placing a bead on 2 of the last 3 loops as you choose. Now slip all 6 loops and next st to RH needle.

NB: Butterflies at beg and end of patt Row 21 are worked over 3 holes only, but in the same manner as 6-hole butterflies.

= double ttr gr

STRAPS (MAKE 2)

Using a 5mm crochet hook, make 8 ch.

Row 1: 1 tr in third ch from hook (counts as first tr), 1 tr in each ch to end of row, turn (7 tr).

Row 2: 3 ch, 1 tr in each st to end of row, turn.

Rep Row 2 until strap measures approx 50cm (19.75in) or preferred length. (Bear in mind that the bag straps will stretch through usage, so it is a good idea to make them slightly shorter.)

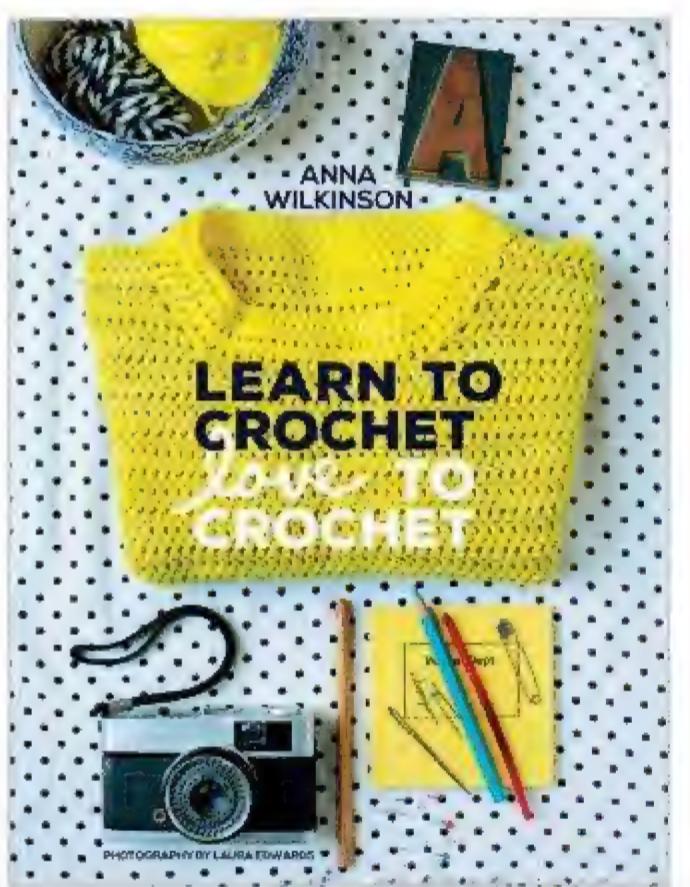

Break yarn and fasten off.

TO FINISH OFF

Weave any loose yarn ends into the back of your work so they are not visible from the right side.

Lightly steam all the panels to ensure they sit flat.

To make the lining, draw around the panels, leaving a 1.5cm (0.5in) seam allowance. Stitch all the lining pieces together. Handstitch the bag panels together and then catch in the lining around the top of the bag. Stitch the handles firmly to the top of the bag.

Bunny toy by Emma Varnam

SIZE

7cm (2.75in) wide by 14cm (5.5in) high

YOU WILL NEED

Rico Essentials Alpaca DK 50% alpaca, 50% wool (125m per 50g)

1 x 50g ball in Light Brown 02 (A)

Small amount of cream DK yarn

1 x 3mm crochet hook

2 x safety eyes

Polyester stuffing

Black embroidery thread

Embroidery needle

Stitch marker

Note: Yarn amounts given are based on average requirements and are approximate.

TENSION

24 sts and 24 rows to 10cm (4in) over double crochet using 3mm hook.

Use larger or smaller hook if necessary to obtain correct tension.

ABBREVIATIONS

dc = double crochet

For more abbreviations see page 85

PATTERN NOTE

You will be working in a spiral.

On Round 7 you will work 'through back loop' (tbl). Rather than inserting your crochet hook under both strands of yarn of the stitch you are about to work into, insert your crochet hook under the back loop only. You will see that this forms a ridge in the crocheted fabric.

On this piece, it demarcates the base of the toy from the body. ▶

Instructions

BODY

Round 1: Using 3mm hook and A, make a magic circle and work 8 dc (8 sts). Place a marker. Move this marker up as you work to mark the end of each round.

Round 2: 2 dc into each st (16 sts).

Round 3: (1 dc, 2 dc into next st), to end of round (24 sts).

Round 4: (2 dc, 2 dc into next st), to end of round (32 sts).

Round 5: (3 dc, 2 dc into next st), to end of round (40 sts).

Round 6: (4 dc, 2 dc into next st), to end of round (48 sts).

Round 7: 1 dc tbl to end of round.

Round 8: (11 dc, 2 dc into next st), to end of round (52 sts).

Rounds 9 to 10: Dc to end of round.

Round 11: (11 dc, dc2tog), to end of round (48 sts).

Rounds 12 to 26: Dc to end of round.

At this point, place the eyes on the bunny if you are using safety eyes, then stuff the toy three-quarters full.

Round 27: (4 dc, dc2tog), to end of round (40 sts).

Round 28: (3 dc, dc2tog), to end of round (32 sts).

Round 29: (2 dc, dc2tog), to end of round (24 sts).

Round 30: (1 dc, dc2tog) to end of round (16 sts).

Now stuff the rest of the body so that the toy is firm and well-rounded.

Round 31: (dc2tog), to end of round (8 sts).

Using a tapestry needle, gather the sts together and pull closed.

Fasten off and weave in ends.

EARS (MAKE 2)

Round 1: Using 3mm hook and A, make a magic circle and work 4 dc (4 sts). Place a marker. Move this marker up as you work to mark the end of each round.

Round 2: 2 dc into each st (8 sts).

Round 3: (3 dc, 2 dc into next st), to end of round (10 sts).

Round 4: (4 dc, 2 dc into next st), to end of round (12 sts).

Round 5: (5 dc, 2 dc into next st), to end of round (14 sts).

Rounds 6 to 14: Dc to end of round.

Fasten off and leave a long tail of yarn.

TO FINISH OFF

Using black embroidery thread, sew a small cross onto the front of the bunny for the mouth. On each ear, make a small tuck so the front of the ear is pleated together.

Sew the ears firmly onto the head using whip stitch.

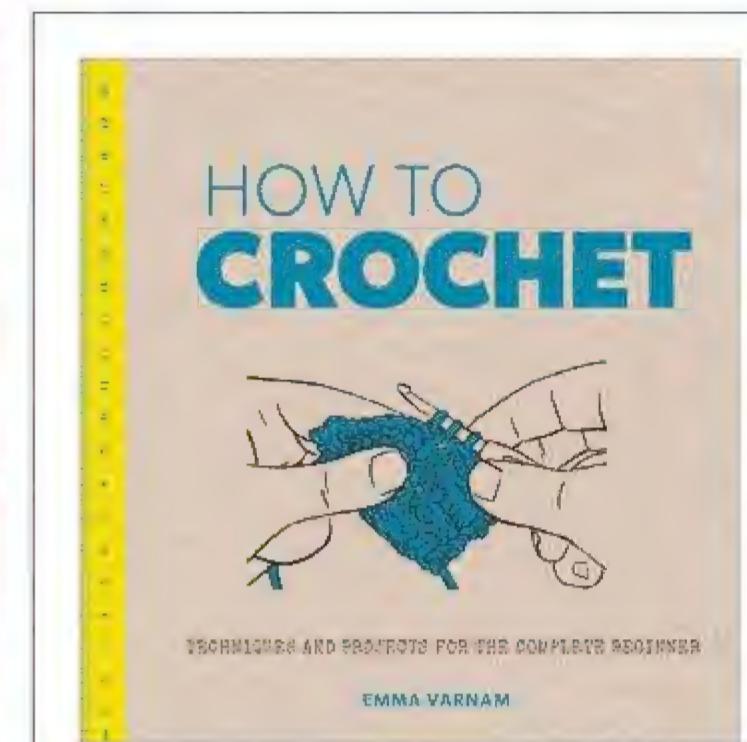

Make a 4cm (1.5in) pompom for the tail using cream yarn. Sew the tail firmly to the back of the bunny.

To make a pompom, cut out two cardboard circles a little smaller than the pompom you want and cut large holes in the centres. Put the rings together and wind lengths of yarn around them, through the middle, until the centre hole is filled. Cut through all the strands of yarn at the outer edge, then ease a length of yarn between the cardboard rings.

Tie very firmly around the centre, leaving a tail for sewing. Ease the card discs away, fluff out the strands and trim. ●

Match the swatch

To match the sizes and measurements given in our patterns you must make a tension swatch (gauge) before knitting the project. If your swatch turns out larger than ours, try again using smaller needles. If it is too small, try larger needles.

Sewing up

- 1 Before you sew knitted pieces together, pin the pieces flat to the measurements given on our diagrams.
- 2 Steam press, lightly steam or spray lightly with water depending on washing instructions on the ball band.
- 3 Allow pieces to cool and dry before sewing up.
- 4 To sew up use the yarn you knitted with. Or, if the yarn is textured and hard to sew, use a smooth matching yarn – cotton with cotton, wool with wool, etc.
- 5 Many garments can be made up by sewing shoulder seams first, then setting in sleeve head to armhole, then completing by sewing along the long seam of the sides and sleeves. Each pattern has extra tips where necessary.
- 6 Darn in all ends and finish seams by lightly steaming from wrong side, provided the yarn can be steamed.

Choosing alternative yarns

- 1 Choose a modern yarn that you like, with a similar look, composition and weight to the one in the old pattern.
- 2 Knit a tension swatch (gauge) and compare it to the one given in the pattern. If they both come out to the same size, you're onto a winner!
- 3 Calculate how much yarn to buy. Many patterns tell you the length of yarn in each ball as well as the weight. So if the pattern uses 10 balls at 130 metres per ball, you know you need up to 1,300 metres of yarn. Check the length per ball of your new yarn and divide the total yarn length by the length in one ball to get the number of balls you need to make the item.
- 4 Compare the total weight of each yarn length. For example if the original pattern had 10 balls at 50g each, the total weight would be 500g. Now that you have worked out how many balls of new yarn you are buying, just multiply the number of balls by the weight per ball. That should roughly match the 500g total that you had for the old yarn. It's just another way to check that you are on the right track.
- 5 Use this same method to substitute yarns for modern patterns, where the yarn is too expensive or difficult to obtain, or if you just want to use up yarn in your stash.

Cascading leaves

I thought you might like to see my version of the Cascading leaves cardigan in the April 2013 (yes, 2013!) issue of Knitting magazine. I used eight 50g balls of 'spring' crochet cotton in peach, and the edging and front bands took just over one 50g ball of cerise. I am now making another version in pale pink, with the front bands and edging in violet, but I aim to make that one longer in the body. Thank you for a lovely magazine.

Spring knitting

I know that knitting is generally considered a winter pastime, or something that you do to create things that keep you especially warm, but I SO love knitting for spring. As soon as it gets to the middle of January I am ready for warmer weather and the promise of spring, so I always cast on a few projects ready for when that time does come. This is why I was so pleased to receive a copy of the March bumper issue of Knitting (issue 139) in February. It was such a light, bright issue that it immediately put me in the frame of mind of springtime. I think my favourite is the Chevron stripes jumper by Alison Robson. The colours are so cheerful, but it will keep me warm enough until the summer finally gets here. Thank you for such a full, beautiful magazine.

On Facebook and Twitter we asked you about sleeveless knitted tops, whether you are for them or against them. This is what some of you have said:

Pauline: I'm in the middle of knitting one!

Bronagh: For a British summer they make a good choice for work, with a light jacket.

Marilynn: I prefer something with sleeves – the air conditioning can be brutal!

Nadine: I'm against them. They're not very flattering.

Karen: I like the idea, but I never wear them.

Lisa: I'm more of a wrap/cardigan person.

Chris: It depends what it's knitted in!

Toe up

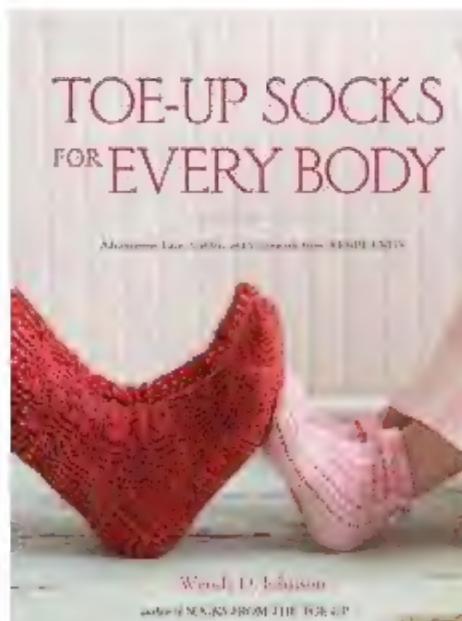

Q I have heard that socks can be knitted from the toe up. Have you any advice or can you recommend any helpful books? This would get rid of the need to graft the toes!

Katharine Humphries of Poole, Dorset

A You have heard correctly. Although most of us have probably learnt to knit socks from the cuff downwards, they can definitely be knitted from the toe up. Why would you want to, you ask? It could be for a number of reasons.

● If you find that your cast on is too tight, making the sock uncomfortably tight around the calf or ankle, a toe-up sock can be finished with a stretchy cast off, such as the Invisible Ribbed Bind Off. As the name suggests, it's both elastic

STAR LETTER

Toe-Up Socks For Everybody
by Wendy D. Johnson and invisible, making it perfect for completing the sock cuff.

- Whilst arguably you can transfer a top-down sock onto waste yarn for trying on, it is easier to try on a toe-up sock while you're knitting. This means you can adjust the fit as you work and so get the exact length required.
- If you're concerned about running out of that oh-so-special sock yarn because you bought just one hank at last year's Unravel, you could knit two toe-up socks simultaneously and simply cast off when you run out. It takes the guesswork out of making them the same length.
- Although I love the seamless miracle of grafting the toe of a top-down sock, I realise that Kitchener stitch causes some knitters to break into a sweat. I sense this is you, so you'll no doubt be grateful that this can be avoided by knitting socks starting at the toe.

As is often the case with knitting, there are no hard and fast rules to working socks using this method. You may choose to start with a 'figure of 8' cast on (simple to learn but a little tricky to keep neat and tight) or Judy's Magic Cast-On (invented by Judy Becker, it's neater but a little trickier to master). Once you've worked the foot you could include a short row afterthought or traditional (flapped) heel before continuing onto the leg, which can be knitted as long as you like – or until you run out of yarn, of course! While you can do a general online search for patterns, I'd recommend searching through Ravelry (www.ravelry.com) for a basic toe-up sock pattern.

There are around 1,200 free patterns available from which you can choose your preferred method for casting on or working the heel, plus, of course, you can see how other knitters have got on making the same design. One of the patterns on offer, Toe-Up Socks With a Difference, is designed by Wendy D. Johnson, who has also written a couple of books using this technique: Toe-Up Socks For Everybody and Socks From The Toe Up (both published by Potter Craft and available from www.thegmcgroup.com). If you're a fan of online classes, then why not check out Craftsy (www.craftsy.com) where you can sign up for Donna Druchunas' Knit Original Toe Up Socks class. It not only teaches the basic techniques, but offers advice on different types of toes and heels, as well as developing your skills, should you want to advance onto creating your own designs or knitting two toe-up socks at a time. You may never need to fear the dreaded Kitchener stitch again.

Ssk sorted

Q Could the abbreviation 'ssk' be explained as (slip one stitch, slip the next stitch, then knit both together)? This does not make sense to me as both stitches end up on the right hand needle, therefore making it unable to knit together.

Terry Lovell by email

A I have to admit that many years ago, having moved from stocking stitch onto lace and garment knitting, this is one of those abbreviations that didn't make a lot of sense to me, either. It does seem a little strange that having individually slipped the stitches, you should then want to knit them, particularly since slipping them means that they're on the right needle rather than the left needle, from where they can be easily worked. I remember wondering why you wouldn't simply work 'k2tog' each time, surely that would be simpler? However, if you want the left and right side decreases on a design to mirror each other you'll need to 'k2tog' on one side and 'ssk' on the other. Hopefully, going through the technique step by step will help to clarify things.

1 When working a standard 'k2tog' we insert the right needle into the first 2 sts on the left needle. Both stitches remain in the same position they were in on the needle (ie the right leg of each stitch is in front of the needle).

2 Once they have been knitted together, the stitches create a decrease that leans to the right with the 2nd stitch sitting on top of the 1st stitch.

3 When working 'ssk' we insert the right needle knit wise (as if to knit) into the 1st stitch on the left needle and slip it. The stitch is now on the right needle, but it has twisted so that the left leg of the stitch is now in front of the needle. Repeat from * to * for the 2nd stitch.

4 Keeping both sts just slipped facing in the same direction, pass them back to the left needle. (The 1st and 2nd sts face right whilst the 3rd and remaining sts face left).

5 Now insert the right needle into both (1st and 2nd) sts through the back of the loops and knit them from this position.

6 Once knitted, the stitches create a decrease that leans to the left with the 1st stitch on top of the 2nd stitch.

Q My mum is 85 and still enjoys knitting – using straightforward patterns! She has started knitting the Waistcoat by Sarah Hazell in Erica Knight Fur Wool from the October 2014 issue of Knitting magazine. However, there appears to be a section of the pattern missing. After knitting to the armholes, the pattern for the back skips to the shoulders/back of neck. Help – patience is not in abundance at 85!

Florence Megaw by email

A It's wonderful to hear that your mum still enjoys knitting at 85. In fact, my mum's the same age and seems to be coming back to knitting after a break of many years. Regardless of age, who doesn't enjoy it when a straightforward pattern allows the mind to relax, while the hands work away at a wonderfully meditative pace? Unfortunately, there was a section of this pattern missing, but I have been in contact with the lovely Sarah Hazell, from whom I've received the correct and full pattern instructions. I've included them below so your mum should be able to resume knitting easily.

The garment begins with a 'stepped' cast on so using 10mm needles, cast on 33 sts.

Knit every row until work measures 10cm, ending on a WS row.

Next row: Cast on 16 sts, K to end. 49 sts.

Next row: Cast on 16 sts, K to end. 65 sts.

You will now be working across the Back and two Fronts as one piece. It's here that the original pattern instructs you to continue until the work measures 24cm (9.5in) and then shape the back neck and shoulders. Instead, continue to knit every row until work measures 36cm (14.25 in) from the cast-on edge, ending on a WS row. At this point you'll be dividing for the Back and two Fronts:

Next row: K16, place these sts on a holder, K to end.

Next row: K16, place these sts on a holder, K to end.

Continuing to work on just the centre stitches for the Back section, knit every row until work measures 24cm then shape neck and shoulders as follows:

Next row: K10 and place these sts on a holder, cast off centre 13 sts, K rem 10 sts.

Knit 2 rows.

Leave these 10 sts on a holder.

Rejoin yarn to 10 sts on holder at beg of row. Knit 2 rows.

Leave these 10 sts on a holder.

From here follow the instructions for the Left and Right Fronts then finish off as instructed by the pattern.

PUR^e About Town

Laura 'Purl Princess' Parkinson prepares for summer with a short history lesson on the dreaded knitted swimsuit.

Summer is finally in the air! It's time to think about lightweight knits: lace, cotton and... knitted swimwear? I can hear the collective grimace as people read those words: Knitted. Swimwear. Ewwww. The very idea of wearing a knitted item and entering the water doesn't really make sense in any way, but history tells us that knitted swimwear did indeed happen and was pretty fashionable.

A Stitch in Time Volume 1 by Jane Waller and Susan Crawford has a couple of very fashionable knitted one-piece swimsuits that a few brave modern-day knitters have made and worn. The big issue is that both were originally knitted in wool, which really doesn't add up when plunged into water. Asking around, I hear the same story again and again of knitted swimsuits weighing the wearer down in the water, itching like mad, feeling like you have the whole beach/swimming pool in the bottom of your trunks and, indeed, all being revealed when you try to exit the water. Which is just what you wanted for your relaxing holiday!

Of course, at the time people were just doing the best with what they had, but personally I am extremely thankful for the invention of Lycra. Luckily, the modern reworking of these particular patterns has substituted wool for cotton, which perhaps stands up better to the water issue, although I'm not particularly keen to try myself.

By the seventies it was the time of the crocheted bikini, which I asked my mum about, as she was a teenager around this time. I was sure she would have whipped up a fetching crochet two-piece set for her Butlins get-aways with her mates. She wouldn't own up to wearing one herself, yet was strangely confident that such items weren't for swimming, but were for sunbathing only. Imagine the granny square tan lines you'd get from that!

When I got into knitting, around 2005, the knitted bikini seemed to crop up in quite a few of my new knitting books. At the time knitting was seen as 'the new yoga', which, granted, it has been twenty times over since then, but perhaps at that time the knitted bikini was the books' way of distinguishing themselves as the new cool young knitters' guides. Back then the widely held perception of knitters was limited to old ladies in rocking chairs only. This never enticed me to cast on and make a set, but checking on Ravelry.com, the Queen of Hearts bikini from the first Stitch 'N Bitch book has nearly 150 projects completed so far, so someone out there thinks it's a good idea. What's more is that reading through the comments there are plenty of knitters claiming that the bikini top provides great support, which I really wasn't expecting.

A few years ago, knitwear designer Franklin Habit wrote on his blog about some vintage swimming trunks he was knitting. He observed that knitted swimwear really had its day and then virtually overnight was replaced by synthetic suits completely. Usually it takes garments a while to totally go out of fashion. Let's face it, knitted swimwear is unlikely to ever become a mainstream choice when heading to the pool or beach but there is clearly good reason for that. So, this summer I won't be stepping out in a woollen one piece, you can count on that.

Must Knit:

If you have the urge to make a knitted swimsuit I suggest a super cool vintage one from www.susancrawfordvintage.com.

There are four women's patterns available and one for men, so no one has to miss out on the soggy bottom issue.
